Motion For Automatic stay

Chapter 13

Your Honor,

Debtor Jean Jerome Dandy Ngando Ekwalla is a former Virginia attorney who lost his law firm after a legal battle with the Virginia State Bar. He started another small business.

Among other things debtor was having health issues and his daughter was in and out the hospital. (Exhibit 1 picture of daughter in the hospital). Debtor is a single dad now.

Soon after debtor lost his law firm, debtor was in a lengthy divorce battle with his now ex wife Angel Thomas Ngando. Debtor was not able to afford previous plans due to his divorce.

That divorce case ended on August 14, 2018. The final order of divorce was entered by the prince William County Circuit on September 5th, 2018. (Exhibit 2)

The divorce court awarded the debtor joint legal custody and secondary primary custody, and the primary residence (home).

That due to the above mentioned problems, debtor experienced a significant loss of income and was unable to meet some of his financial obligations. Debtor is self-employed.

Now that the divorce has ended, Debtor is confident that he will be able to focus on his small business he started and make money to meet his financial obligations including a chapter 13 plan.

Debtor made more money since the divorce as bank statements will show. Therefore, Debtor respectfully requests automatic stay.
